The Big Picture

- › University research is funded by a range of extramural parties
  - › Federal government
  - › State and local government
  - › Foreign governments
  - › Corporations/Industry (domestic/foreign)
  - › Foundations/Nonprofit organizations (domestic/foreign)
  - › Individual Donors – handled by University Advancement Office
- › The university research enterprise is driven by both external and internal funding

Sponsored Awards vs Gifts

Early Career Awards

- › Support scholars as they are getting established in research, usually during the first ten years
- › Potential Benefits: funding, recognition, mentoring, expanded research network
- › Timelines: plan ahead; talk to your department manager, grants manager, CEFRR
- › Getting nominated: discuss early on with your chair and other recommenders

Limited Submission Opportunities

- Funding opportunities for which the University is invited to nominate a limited number of candidates
- For example: Packard Fellows; Carnegie Fellows; Pew Fellows
- Components of an Internal Application
  1. Statement of endorsement from the Chair (on letterhead and signed)
  2. Nominee's C.V.
  3. Summary of the research project
  4. List of the candidate's current funding
